February 17th ASQ 1212 Section's Main Meeting: FDA Investigator of the Year, Lorelei Jarrell's presentation "How to Make Responsible Choices in a Fast Paced World" (7:30-8:30p.m.)

Help your company succeed in this challenging economic environment. Keep in line with new FDA expectations. In today's fast paced world, it is vital to make responsible choices for your bottom line, for your reputation, and above all, for your consumers! Tonight's discussion will focus on the thought process behind those choices. Learn the tools and insights from an FDA expert with a wealth of inspectional experience and expertise to help you make decisions with greater clarity and better outcomes. Whether you are from the service, manufacturing or pharmaceutical industries, this presentation will enable you to have the tools necessary to limit your liability and minimize your risks.

This evening's program will be followed by an Ask the expert's session. The question and answer format following tonight's program will allow participants to get the information that they need about corporate compliance, the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) Inspectional process, how to prepare for a successful FDA inspection, and how to interact with the FDA investigator. If you had the opportunity to talk with the FDA Investigator of the Year, what would you want to ask? What would you want to know? Facing a FDA challenge? Get the FDA perspective. Bring all your FDA Inspection problems to February's ASQ meeting and get the advice and answers you need.

Lorelei Jarrell has been with the Chicago District FDA since the 1970's. For close to 20 years, she served as the lead investigator in charge of a suburban Chicago office, during which time she specialized in medical device and pharmaceutical inspections, and is currently recognized as a Regional Expert in both fields. In 1995, she became Chicago's first Pre-approval Manager. She currently focuses primarily on compliance activities. She has worn many hats throughout her dedicated FDA career. She has received several awards throughout her 30+ FDA years, the most notable of which is the first FDA Investigator of the Year Award. She has also received the distinguished Outstanding Service Award in 2008 and 2010.
